

Government of Western Australia
School Curriculum and Standards Authority

RELIGION AND LIFE

ATAR COURSE

Year 12 syllabus

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

This syllabus is effective from 1 January 2016.

Users of this syllabus are responsible for checking its currency.

Syllabuses are formally reviewed by the School Curriculum and Standards Authority on a cyclical basis, typically every five years.

Copyright

© School Curriculum and Standards Authority, 2014.

This document – apart from any third party copyright material contained in it – may be freely copied, or communicated on an intranet, for non-commercial purposes in educational institutions, provided that the School Curriculum and Standards Authority is acknowledged as the copyright owner, and that the Authority's moral rights are not infringed.

Copying or communication for any other purpose can be done only within the terms of the Copyright Act 1968 or with prior written permission of the School Curriculum and Standards Authority. Copying or communication of any third party copyright material can be done only within the terms of the Copyright Act 1968 or with permission of the copyright owners.

Any content in this document that has been derived from the Australian Curriculum may be used under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial 3.0 Australia licence

Content

Rationale	1
Course outcomes	2
Organisation	3
Structure of the syllabus	3
Organisation of content	3
Representation of the general capabilities	5
Representation of the cross-curriculum priorities	6
Unit 3	8
Unit description	8
Unit content	8
Unit 4	10
Unit description	10
Unit content	10
School-based assessment	12
Grading	13
WACE examination	14
Examination design brief – Year 12	15
Appendix 1 – Grade descriptions Year 12	16

Rationale

The Religion and Life ATAR course provides students with opportunities to learn about religion and the interplay that occurs between religion, societies and people. Students develop an informed and critical understanding of this interplay by drawing from a detailed knowledge of one or more religions.

Every religion offers a system of beliefs and practices. In the Religion and Life ATAR course, students explore one or more religions and investigate the characteristics of religion, their origins, foundations, social influence and development over time. They analyse the role religion has played in society and understand the challenges and opportunities religions face.

The connections between religion and life occur in many areas of human activity. Religion motivates and influences how people interact with each other and the world around them.

Students employ research and learning skills that enable them to use a range of primary and secondary sources to investigate the interplay between religion and life.

Course outcomes

The Religion and Life ATAR course is designed to facilitate achievement of the following outcomes.

Outcome 1 – The nature of religion

Students understand that many people find meaning and purpose in life through religion.

In achieving this outcome, students:

- understand that people search for meaning and purpose in life
- understand that religion provides meaning and purpose in people's lives
- understand that there is diversity in religious structures and processes.

Outcome 2 – The influence of religion

Students understand the role religion plays in the lives of individuals and in society.

In achieving this outcome, students:

- understand that religion and society interact and influence each other
- understand that events or issues in history have influenced the interaction between religion and society
- understand that current issues in society involve an interplay between religion and society.

Outcome 3 – Religious inquiry skills

Students use religious inquiry and learning skills to investigate their understandings of the interplay between religion and life.

In achieving this outcome, students:

- develop and use a religious vocabulary
- conduct research that incorporates planning, processing, synthesising and communicating relevant findings
- analyse and use sources
- evaluate different points of view
- communicate effectively.

Organisation

This course is organised into a Year 11 syllabus and a Year 12 syllabus. The cognitive complexity of the syllabus content increases from Year 11 to Year 12.

Structure of the syllabus

The Year 12 syllabus is divided into two units which are delivered as a pair. The notional time for the pair of units is 110 class contact hours.

Unit 3

The focus for this unit is the connection between past and present experiences of religion. Students analyse the impact of changes within society and how these changes shape the way individuals and groups interact with religion. They further develop research skills for conducting an inquiry, processing information and, communicating findings about the interplay between religion and life.

Unit 4

The focus for this unit is the interplay between religion and life. Students explore how religion responds to, and interacts with, issues that arise within society. They further develop research skills for conducting an inquiry, processing information, and communicating findings about the interplay between religion and life.

Each unit includes:

- a unit description – a short description of the focus of the unit
- unit content – the content to be taught and learned.

Organisation of content

The course content is divided into three content areas:

- The nature of religion
- The influence of religion
- Religious inquiry and learning skills.

The nature of religion

The search for meaning

People search for and find meaning in life in many different ways. In response to the search for meaning, many people find answers in religion and choose to follow a particular religious way of life. How a person interacts with religion is shaped by the context of their life, both social and personal. There are many examples of people who illustrate the role religion plays in a person's search for meaning in life.

Religious belief and practice

Within each religion, as well as across religions, there is complexity and diversity. In general terms, a religion is a system of beliefs and practices that guides how people live. Each religion offers particular insights and understandings about life. These find expression in a variety of religious beliefs, teachings and practices. Followers of each religion also come together to express aspects of their religion through worship, celebrations, rituals, and by observing special events and seasons.

Religious structures and processes

The structures and processes at work within a particular religion play an important role in shaping how and why a religion operates. An important part of this is also the organisation and structure of each religion. Such organisational characteristics are constantly being tested or re-shaped by the interplay that takes place between individuals, society, the beliefs of the religion, as well as its history and traditions.

The influence of religion

The place of religion in society

Religious traditions interact with specific cultures in complex and dynamic ways. These interactions influence how religion is perceived and understood within society, particularly around matters of concern to religion. In a multicultural and multifaith society, such as Australia, there is a rich diversity of religious traditions. This diversity of religious traditions reflects many aspects of religion and society throughout the world.

Religion in historical contexts

Religions are not static. They have been shaped, and continue to be shaped over time, by a dynamic interaction with particular places, times and people. Understanding the development of a particular religion is enhanced by a focus on the foundation and growth of the religion and how the religion has responded to changes in society.

Current issues for religion

All religions, in order to remain both authentic and relevant, constantly reflect on how best to respond to changing values and attitudes in society. Rapid changes in such things as technology, the media, family life, marriage, and other dimensions of social life all have the potential to create issues within society that in turn become matters of concern or interest for particular religions.

Religious inquiry and learning skills

A study of religion involves the use of skills that promote:

- specific and technical language
- particular thought processes
- the capacity to think and express understandings about religion in an informed and critical manner.

Understanding the interplay between religion, society and individuals involves a capacity to conduct meaningful inquiries. Inquiry utilises a range of skills and involves a number of important and related steps:

- identifying a research focus
- gathering, processing and synthesising relevant information
- communicating effectively the findings of an inquiry.

Learning in the unit is supported by using a range of skills that focus on:

- terms and concepts
- research
- analysis and use of sources
- explanation and communication.

Representation of the general capabilities

The general capabilities encompass the knowledge, skills, behaviours and dispositions that will assist students to live and work successfully in the twenty-first century. Teachers may find opportunities to incorporate the capabilities into the teaching and learning program for the Religion and Life ATAR course. The general capabilities are not assessed unless they are identified within the specified unit content.

Literacy

Students access relevant content through a variety of print, oral, visual, spatial and electronic forms. They learn to interpret and infer meaning from a variety of sources. They identify relevant evidence by analysing and evaluating texts for authority, reliability, relevance and accuracy. Students create a wide range of texts to communicate, explore, discuss, explain, and argue a point of view. By selecting and employing text structure and language knowledge, students express their thoughts and ideas logically and fluently, supported by evidence. They learn to monitor their own language use for accuracy in the use of religious terms, clarity of ideas and explanations, conciseness of expression, and use language effectively to articulate a position.

Numeracy

Students recognise patterns and relationships chronologically and spatially through the use of scaled timelines, tables, graphs and maps. They have opportunities to support their views with data, some of which is numerical in nature. Students develop numeracy capability when they analyse, interpret and draw conclusions from statistical information.

Information and communication technology capability

Students use digital tools and strategies to locate, access, process and analyse information. They use information and communication technology (ICT) skills to investigate and identify the provenance and credibility of evidence and to communicate relevant information. They develop an understanding of the issues involved in the use of ICT when practising ethical scholarship as part of the inquiry process.

Critical and creative thinking

Students have opportunities to delve deeply into the implications of ideas and information they investigate. The demands of inquiry include the ability to pose intelligent questions, interrogate, select and cross-reference sources, and develop interpretations based on an assessment of the evidence and reasoning. Students identify possible weaknesses in their own positions, and analyse, evaluate and synthesise alternative interpretations and representations relevant to a study of religion and life.

Personal and social capability

Students develop and practice skills that enhance their communication skills and participation in teamwork. Students have opportunities to work both collaboratively and independently as part of their learning and research. They develop advanced research and presentation skills to express and justify their views effectively to others. Students develop their ability to appreciate the perspectives and experiences of others through the practise of empathy. Students develop increasing social awareness through the study of relationships between individuals and diverse social groups that interact on matters related to, and important to, a study of religion.

Ethical understanding

Students explore and understand the diverse perspectives and circumstances that shape the actions and possible motivations of people. Students have opportunities, both independently and collaboratively, to explore the values, beliefs and principles that are the basis for the judgements and actions of people and particular religions.

Intercultural understanding

Students acquire knowledge of culturally diverse perspectives and roles and learn how these relate to a study of religion. Students develop an understanding of the diverse societies and cultures, and that different ways of life provide a frame of reference for recognising and appreciating intercultural diversity in the contemporary world. They also explore different perspectives, the contexts for those perspectives, and the implications these may have for religion and people in the contemporary world.

Representation of the cross-curriculum priorities

The cross-curriculum priorities address contemporary issues which students face in a globalised world. Teachers may find opportunities to incorporate the priorities into the teaching and learning program for the Religion and Life ATAR course. The cross-curriculum priorities are not assessed unless they are identified within the specified unit content.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures

The rationale for the Religion and Life ATAR course requires students to focus on at least one religion in their study. A religion, as understood within the course rationale, includes a focus on Aboriginal spiritualities. The interaction of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures with particular religions may also form part of the learning of a unit. Finally, exploring aspects of the past or present context of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples offer opportunities for developing an understanding of the place of religion in Australian society or issues that exist within society, including the dichotomy between Aboriginal spirituality and introduced religions.

Asia and Australia's engagement with Asia

This priority provides an important context for understanding the interplay between religion and life. Much of what is understood about religion and particular religions originates in the history and culture of Asia. A study of the interplay between religion and life will therefore naturally explore Asia, in all its diversity, and Australia's engagement with Asia. Students have opportunities to explore: particular religious traditions that arose and grew within the Asia region; how religion has interacted with this region over time; and, the nature of past and ongoing links between Australia and Asia involving religion. Students develop the knowledge, understanding and skills, which make it possible for them to engage actively and effectively with peoples from the Asia region, particularly in terms of how peoples of the Asia region relate to religion.

Sustainability

Each religion has insights, beliefs and practices that have the potential to impact upon how people respond to issues of sustainability. These beliefs play an important role in shaping how people understand and interact with the world they live in. Religions also contribute to how people understand and interact with the promotion of healthy social, economic and ecological patterns of living for our collective wellbeing and survival. The study of Religion and Life engages with a diversity of world views, including those on ecosystems. It informs the values of people and the views they hold about social justice and how these values and views relate to sustainability. In promoting inquiry skills, the Religion and Life ATAR course helps build the capacity of students to think and act in ways that are necessary to create a more sustainable future. These course skills promote reflective thinking processes and empower young people to be active participants in society.

Unit 3

Unit description

The focus for this unit is the connection between past and present experiences of religion. Students analyse the impact of changes within society and how these changes shape the way individuals and groups interact with religion. They further develop research skills for conducting an inquiry, processing information, and communicating findings about the interplay between religion and life.

Unit content

This unit includes the knowledge, understandings and skills described below. This is the examinable content.

The nature of religion

The search for meaning

- how social factors impact on how people interact with religion

Religious belief and practice

- how one religious belief, teaching, ritual or practice developed over time

Religious structures and processes

- how a religion uses a particular structure and/or process to address important issues

The influence of religion

The place of religion in society

- differing ways in which religion is viewed in society

Religion in historical contexts

- the significance of one religious event and/or issue from the past

Current issues for religion

- the nature of one current issue generating tension and conflict in society
- how a religion responds to this tension and/or conflict and the reasons for this response

Religious inquiry and learning skills

Terms and concepts

- use terms and concepts in appropriate contexts to demonstrate relevant knowledge and understanding

Research

- frame questions to guide inquiry and develop a coherent research plan for inquiry
- identify, locate and organise relevant information from a range of relevant sources
- practise ethical scholarship when conducting research

Analysis and use of sources

- identify the origin, purpose and context of particular sources
- analyse, interpret and synthesise evidence from different types of sources to develop and sustain an academic argument
- evaluate the reliability, usefulness and contestable nature of sources to develop informed judgements that support an academic argument
- analyse and evaluate different interpretations and points of view

Explanation and communication

- develop reasoned and supported conclusions
- develop texts that integrate appropriate evidence from a range of sources to explain, support and/or refute arguments
- communicate understanding by selecting and using text forms appropriate to purpose and audience
- apply appropriate referencing techniques accurately and consistently

Unit 4

Unit description

The focus for this unit is the interplay between religion and life. Students explore how religion responds to, and interacts with, issues that arise within society. They further develop research skills for conducting an inquiry, processing information and communicating findings about the interplay between religion and life.

Unit content

This unit includes the knowledge, understandings and skills described below. This is the examinable content.

The nature of religion

The search for meaning

- the interplay between the life of one significant religious person, their context and religion

Religious belief and practice

- the concept of freedom from a religious perspective
- a religious belief, teaching, ritual or practice provided by a religion to help people in their search for freedom

Religious structures and processes

- how and why a religion develops and expresses its beliefs

The influence of religion

The place of religion in society

- the role religion plays in the public life of Australia or another nation

Religion in historical contexts

- the interplay between a religion and an issue within a particular historical context

Current issues for religion

- a current issue for a religion and how this religion interacts with this issue

Religious inquiry and learning skills

Terms and concepts

- use terms and concepts in appropriate contexts to demonstrate relevant knowledge and understanding

Research

- frame questions to guide inquiry and develop a coherent research plan for inquiry
- identify, locate and organise relevant information from a range of relevant sources
- practise ethical scholarship when conducting research

Analysis and use of sources

- identify the origin, purpose and context of particular sources
- analyse, interpret and synthesise evidence from different types of sources to develop and sustain an academic argument
- evaluate the reliability, usefulness and contestable nature of sources to develop informed judgements that support an academic argument
- analyse and evaluate different interpretations and points of view

Explanation and communication

- develop reasoned and supported conclusions
- develop texts that integrate appropriate evidence from a range of sources to explain, support and/or refute arguments
- communicate understanding by selecting and using text forms appropriate to purpose and audience
- apply appropriate referencing techniques accurately and consistently

School-based assessment

The Western Australian Certificate of Education (WACE) Manual contains essential information on principles, policies and procedures for school-based assessment that needs to be read in conjunction with this syllabus.

Teachers design school-based assessment tasks to meet the needs of students. The table below provides details of the assessment types for the Religion and Life ATAR Year 12 syllabus and the weighting for each assessment type.

Assessment table – Year 12

Type of assessment	Weighting
Investigation Students use the religious inquiry and learning skills to plan, conduct and communicate the results of an inquiry. Research formats can include: written reports, oral presentations or multimedia presentations or a combination of these.	25%
Explanation The format for explanations can be: structured short written responses, extended writing, such as reports and essays, oral and/or multimedia presentations, including speeches, and/or seminar presentations.	20%
Source analysis Students respond to questions based on one or more sources. Sources can include: religious teachings and practices (extracts from stories, sacred texts and writings, oral traditions, speeches, symbols, artwork, rituals); newspapers (extracts from reportage, analysis, editorials, letters, opinion columns, cartoons); radio, television, video and film (news, current affairs, documentaries, dramas, comedy); and/or websites. The format for source analysis can include: structured short written responses and/or extended written answers.	25%
Examination Typically conducted at the end of each semester and/or unit and reflecting the examination design brief for this syllabus.	30%

Teachers are required to use the assessment table to develop an assessment outline for the pair of units.

The assessment outline must:

- include a set of assessment tasks
- include a general description of each task
- indicate the unit content to be assessed
- indicate a weighting for each task and each assessment type
- include the approximate timing of each task (for example, the week the task is conducted, or the issue and submission dates for an extended task).

In the assessment outline for the pair of units, each assessment type must be included at least twice, except in Investigation which must be included at least once.

The set of assessment tasks must provide a representative sampling of the content for Unit 3 and Unit 4.

Assessment tasks not administered under test/controlled conditions require appropriate validation/authentication processes.

Grading

Schools report student achievement in terms of the following grades:

Grade	Interpretation
A	Excellent achievement
B	High achievement
C	Satisfactory achievement
D	Limited achievement
E	Very low achievement

The teacher prepares a ranked list and assigns the student a grade for the pair of units. The grade is based on the student's overall performance as judged by reference to a set of pre-determined standards. These standards are defined by grade descriptions and annotated work samples. The grade descriptions for the Religion and Life ATAR Year 12 syllabus are provided in Appendix 1. They can also be accessed, together with annotated work samples, through the Guide to Grades link on the course page of the Authority website at www.scsa.wa.edu.au

To be assigned a grade, a student must have had the opportunity to complete the education program, including the assessment program (unless the school accepts that there are exceptional and justifiable circumstances).

Refer to the WACE Manual for further information about the use of a ranked list in the process of assigning grades.

WACE examination

All students enrolled in the Religion and Life ATAR Year 12 course are required to sit the WACE examination. The examination is based on a representative sampling of the content for Unit 3 and Unit 4. Details of the WACE examination are prescribed in the examination design brief on the following page.

Refer to the WACE Manual for further information.

Examination design brief – Year 12

Time allowed

Reading time before commencing work: ten minutes

Working time for paper: three hours

Permissible items

Standard items: pens (blue/black preferred), pencils (including coloured), sharpener, correction fluid/tape, eraser, ruler, highlighters

Special items: nil

Additional information

The examination accommodates candidates who have studied different religions. The candidate uses specific knowledge relevant to at least one religion.

SECTION	SUPPORTING INFORMATION
Section One Source analysis 40% of the total examination 3–5 questions Suggested working time: 80 minutes	Questions consist of parts which can range from short to more extended answers. Questions require the candidate to refer to source material, which can include: extracts from religious manuscripts, news media and/or journal articles. Materials can be in the form of text, images, graphs and/or cartoons.
Section Two Short answer 30% of the total examination 3–5 questions Suggested working time: 50 minutes	Questions can be in parts and can require the candidate to respond to quotations and/or propositions.
Section Three Essay 30% of the total examination One question from a choice of two Suggested working time: 50 minutes	Questions can require the candidate to respond to quotations and/or propositions.

Appendix 1 – Grade descriptions Year 12

A	Demonstrates a comprehensive and clear understanding of how the interplay between religion and life unfolds and/or the significance of this interplay.
	Gathers meaningful and relevant evidence that is used in a process that aims to demonstrate the interplay between religion and life in a way that is clear, focused and tailored to the task and/or audience.
	Provides explanations that communicate a synthesis of the principles and ideas that underpin the interplay that occurs between religion, society and the lives of individuals.
B	Demonstrates a sound understanding of the interplay between religion and life and how this interplay is represented.
	Gathers reliable information that is analysed and used in terms of relevance, point of view and significance to a study of the interplay between religion and life.
	Provides explanations that focus on the principles and ideas that underpin the interplay that occurs between religion, society and the lives of individuals.
C	Demonstrates some understanding of key ideas, features and/or processes associated with the interplay between religion and life.
	Gathers suitable information that supports ideas related to the interplay between religion and life, and considers information in terms of its usefulness and relevance for understanding the interplay between religion and life.
	Provides explanations that present ideas and/or facts that relate to religious and societal beliefs and values relevant to the interplay between religion and life, but errors or gaps are evident.
D	Demonstrates a limited or inaccurate grasp of the key ideas and/or details that are required for understanding the interplay between religion and life.
	Gathers information that is often inappropriate/incorrect and/or is used or applied in a confused or confusing fashion, or is limited in terms of its relationship to the interplay between religion and life.
	Provides explanations that relate to the interplay between religion and life but are inconsistent, lack sufficient logic or are inaccurate.
E	Demonstrates little or no understanding of the interplay between religion and life.
	Gathers information that does not relate to a study of the interplay between religion and life and/or is used inconsistently or incorrectly.
	Provides explanations that are unclear, confused or unsuitable for communicating an understanding of the interplay between religion and life.